Message

Even though there have been rapid advancement in Spine Trauma Management, there is still a huge gap between “the Possible” and that “actually available” to those inflicted with this devastating ailment. Recognizing this gap, Spinal Cord Society organises International Spine & Spinal Injuries conference each year.

The theme of ISSICON 2017 focuses on the challenges and opportunities in Spine Trauma Care. We are privileged to have the support of very distinguished international (24) and national (56) faculty.

We extend a hearty invitation to all concerned professionals for what promises to be a scientific feast. We will also strive to provide an ambient environment for socializing and networking.

Look forward to having you all with us,

Dr. HS Chhabra

Chief of Spine Service &

Medical Director, ISIC

Secretary, Spinal Cord Society

President Elect & Chairman – Prevention Committee (ISCoS)

Executive Member, Asian Spinal Cord Networking

Secretary, Association of Spine Surgeons of India

Qutub Minar

Qutab Minar is a soaring, 73 m-high tower of victory, built in 1193 by Qutab-ud-din Aibak immediately after the defeat of Delhi's last Hindu kingdom. The tower has five distinct storeys, each marked by a projecting balcony and tapers from a 15 m diameter at the base to just 2.5 m at the top. The first three storeys are made of red sandstone; the fourth and fifth storeys are of marble and sandstone. At the foot of the tower is the Quwwat-ul-Islam Mosque, the first mosque to be built in India. An inscription over its eastern gate provocatively informs that it was built with material obtained from demolishing '27 Hindu temples'. A 7 m-high iron pillar stands in the courtyard of the mosque. It is said that if you can encircle it with your hands while standing with your back to it your wish will be fulfilled.

Agrasen ki Baoli

Agrasen ki Baoli (also known as Agar Sain ki Baoli or Ugrasen ki Baoli), designated a protected monument by the Archeological Survey of India (ASI) under the Ancient Monuments and Archeological Sites and Remains Act of 1958, is a 60-meter long and 15-meter wide historical step well on Hailey Road near Connaught Place, Jantar Mantar in New Delhi, India. Although there are no known historical records to prove who built Agrasen ki Baoli, it is believed that it was originally built by the legendary king Agrasen[3] during the Mahabharat epic era and rebuilt in the 14th century by the Agrawal community which traces its origin to Maharaja Agrasen.

It is among a few of its kind in Delhi. Some parts of the well, with 103 steps, are permanently immersed in water. The visible parts of this historical step well consist of three levels. Each level is lined with arched niches on both sides. From an architectural perspective this step well was probably rebuilt[13] during the Tughlaq period.

Trail the paintings on the walls

Some of Delhi's
most stunning street art

The Delhi street art scene is buzzing; whether it is legal projects - those done under St ART Festival or illegal graffiti. All these are a sign of creativity and freedom of expression. Some of the most stunning street art in Delhi is found in Shapur Jat - which has steadily gained a reputation for all things avant garde, with its vintage inspired cafes, kitschy interior havens and on-trend fashion and accessory outlets that supply everything from a stapler to a well tailored suit. From artist studios, cafes modelled on camaraderie and fashion fabricated from all things natural, to high-end boutiques and concept stores. It has been transformed from a small village into a walking art gallery.
